In 1857, General George R. Smith founded "Sedville," a name derived from his daughter Sarah’s nickname, “Sed.” The name of his proposed new prairie town would later be refined to the more lyrical name – Sedalia.

Sedalia is a product of the railroad. For more than a century, Sedalia’s history and fortunes were tied to the railroads that brought prosperity and urban industrial culture.

Both the Missouri Pacific and Missouri-Kansas-Texas (KATY) Railroads were responsible for 90% of Sedalia’s economy generated by large repair shops, passenger and freight depots, an employee hospital, telegraph schools and stockyards.

As a regional market center, Sedalia serves as the county seat of Pettis County (estimated population of 50,000). Our diverse economic base is supported by Bothwell Regional Health Center, State Fair Community College, Missouri State Fairgrounds, growing retail and professional services, strong visual and performing arts programming, one of the largest per-capita manufacturing employers in the state, and nearby Whiteman Air Force Base and Truman Lake’s recreational area.

A designated Sedalia Heritage Trail begins at Sedalia’s Welcome Center located at the Historic Katy Depot. It winds through Sedalia’s Downtown Historic District where Scott Joplin composed and performed, past the first Carnegie Library west of the Mississippi River, and through Liberty Park where the first fairs in Pettis County were held. The Trail continues on through the State Fairgrounds Historic District and onto the campus of State Fair Community College, highlighting the Daum Museum of Contemporary Art. A self-guided tour brochure introduces more than 64 historic structures to give a greater sense of Sedalia’s heritage.

The following pages offer a suggestion of those “must see” attractions and must do events.
Historic Katy Depot

Open Mon – Sat
9 am - 4 pm
Closed weekends
Jan - Mar

Make the Depot the First Stop on Your Sedalia Adventure.

This restored historic landmark is both a symbol and an artifact of Sedalia’s story. Built in 1896, the Katy Depot served as a train passenger depot and division point offices for the M-K-T Lines.

Today the Katy Depot serves as Sedalia’s official Welcome Center, providing guests with a staffed information center, gift shop, exhibit gallery, and event space.

The feature exhibit “Sedalia and the Railroad” includes a short DVD, as well as revolving exhibits telling about other aspects of our past. In addition to self-guided tours, docent-led group tours can be arranged in advance.

The Katy Depot sits at mile marker 227 on the Katy Trail and is a major full-service trailhead with a bike shop.

The Railway Express Building will soon transition into a Toy and Model Train Exhibit. The exhibit, dedicated to Robert Stevens, first general manager of the MKT Railroad, will become the center of a railroad-themed education and activity schedule in conjunction with MoPac Caboose 12099.

Stroll along replicas of a railroad owner’s home, railroad worker’s home, passenger depot and rail repair shops, local church, school and commercial building that provide a sense of the Sedalia of yesteryear.
Downtown Historic District

Experience the renaissance of the historic downtown district as the region’s center for cultural arts and urban dwelling.

The flag-lined streets with new streetscape and gateway construction serve to provide modern aesthetics to the more than 120 beautiful architectural treasures listed in the National Register of Historic Places, dating from 1890 to 1940.

Traveling Sedalia’s public art trail, you are about to experience a wonderful array of sculptures, murals, and performances.

The Hayden Liberty Center

Community Theatre
The center offers local thespians the opportunity to showcase their talents via locally produced shows. It also offers students the opportunity to shine onstage during its summer junior theatre productions. In addition to locally produced shows, the stage also hosts professional shows and a film series each year.

Community Art Gallery
The art gallery space now offers three galleries and showcases local and area artists’ works.

The Liberty Center is proud to be the leader of the Sedalia Cultural Arts Campaign. Working to ensure a celebration of all disciplines of the arts, we’re sure you will find something that you will enjoy during your visit to Sedalia.

The Sedalia Symphony Society
The Sedalia Symphony is celebrating its 83rd season making it the second oldest performing orchestra west of the Mississippi. The orchestra presents three concerts per season with guest artists, as well as a Christmas POPS concert and an annual performance of Handel’s Messiah. The orchestra is composed entirely of volunteer musicians from Sedalia and the surrounding communities. During its existence there have only been three conductors.

Scott Joplin
Ragtime
Festival

A celebration of the music, the man and the place where it began.

For more than 35 years, Sedalia has hosted performers from around the world who celebrate the King of Ragtime’s music.

Sedalia’s Ragtime Festival is held annually the first weekend in June. During this weekend performers and aficionados alike converge on Sedalia to celebrate.

Our musical heritage is set alive where Scott Joplin and his “Maple Leaf Rag” made American Music History.

The four-day festival is packed with rattling good fun… concerts feature Ragtime Legends and Festival Favorites … open-air venues feature the up and coming ragtime performers … symposia provide insights into the musicology and offer continuing education credits … special events include the Joplin Footsteps Tour … and the ever-popular Cakewalk Dance.

Sedalia was indeed a fascinating place in the 1880s when Scott Joplin arrived as a young man. The Ragtime Visitors Guide, available at the Welcome Center, provides a driving tour of the places he lived and worked, as well as other ragtime heritage sites. Listen for the notes of ragtime tunes from long ago as you visit each stop.

The Scott Joplin International Ragtime Music Festival is recognized as the premier cultural arts event celebrating this unique musical heritage.
Sitting high atop a scenic bluff seven miles north on Highway 65, the massive stone Bothwell Lodge was built between 1897 and 1928 by one of Sedalia’s greatest benefactors, John Homer Bothwell. It was, in fact, Bothwell’s efforts that eventually landed the Missouri State Fair and the Missouri Pacific shops in Sedalia. Bothwell Regional Health Center, the Bothwell School, and the Hotel Bothwell also owe their existence to this visionary philanthropist.

The Missouri State Fairgrounds Historic District contains a significant collection of early 20th century architecture, with 66 buildings and structures listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The architectural styles range from eclectic variations of the Romanesque Revival to Art Deco / Art Modern. Nearly all of the original significant structures remain in use today. Over the years the historic fairgrounds have hosted four U. S. Presidents, an airplane exhibition in 1909 by the Wright brothers, and exhibits of Missouri’s best agricultural practices. The Missouri State Fairgrounds is one of only five historical state fairgrounds left in the United States today.

The Historic Sedalia Trail, often referred to in the popular 1960’s TV series Rawhide, was actually a branch of the old Shawnee Trail. Many cattle drives followed this trail north from Texas to bring the famed longhorn cattle to market. Sedalia was one of the earliest cowtowns to which trail bosses did ‘head ‘em up and move ‘em out.

The Fairground's 396 acres, listed on the National Register of Historic Districts, are the home of over 2,200 campsites and modern convention and agricultural facilities. From the Varied Industries Building—built in 1903, to the MFA Youth Livestock Arena—completed in 2013, the nationally recognized architecture on the Fairgrounds is unduplicated. The Womans Building, built in 1910 houses the State Fair Museum.

A variety of events are hosted on the Fairgrounds throughout the year, including livestock shows, camping rallies, sporting events, conventions/trade shows, and weddings/receptions. The Katy Trail State Park runs along the south side of the Fairgrounds and is within easy biking distance of the campsites.
